

For the prevention and cure of MILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS is recommended
HAY'S ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS
This Medicine has been attended to a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons has been adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak in favour of a medicine than consists of powerful emetics founded on the assertion.
It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken in every two weeks during the presence of our bilious fevers, will prove infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases for use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases seemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly safe, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.
They are excellently adapted to carry superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the system—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often fatal consequences. A dose never to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance; they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.
They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and could be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

Hamilton's Elixir,

stinate coughs, asthma, sore throats, carries, and approaching consumptions.— covery is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorders to which children are liable. The Elixir is perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small that no difficulty arises in taking it.

Hamilton's Cough and Restorative, Is recommended as an invaluable medicine for the speedy relief and permanent cure of and chronic rheumatism, gout, rheumatic gout, palsy, lumbago, numbness, white

Lee's Ointment for the Itch.
Warranted an infallible remedy at once application, may be used with perfect safety by pregnant women, or on infants a week old, not containing a particle of mercury or any dangerous ingredient whatever, and not accompanied with that tormenting smart which attends the application of other remedies.

Hahn's true & genuine German Corn Plaster.

An infallible remedy for corns, speedily removing them root and branch, without giving any pain.

The Genuine Persian Lotion,
So celebrated among the fashionable throughout Europe, is an invaluable cosmetic, perfectly innocent and safe, free from corrosive and repellent minerals, the basis of other lotions, and of unparalleled efficacy in removing blemishes of the face and skin, freckles, pimples, inflammatory redness, scurfs, fetters, ringworms, sunburns, prickly heat, &c.

Hahn's genuine Eye Water, may be had gratis, describing cures performed by the above medicines; the number, importance and respectability of which, fully justify every article of this advertisement.

TO THE FALLING LEAF.

"Sic transit gloria mundi." Pale harbingers of nature's fate, How soon thy days of pride are past!
Like man's, how transient is thy date, Who fades and falls, like thee, at last!
Sic transit—signs my heavy heart, (As autumn's foliage strews the ground, Condemn'd from each green grove to part, Where all her verdure bloom'd around.) Sic transit—grandeur's nodding plume, That waves above the ignominious crowd;
Its march is rapid to the tomb, Whilst yet resound their plaudits loud.
Sic transit—batteries' vapor-breath—
The laurel wreaths the hero wears, But flourish—fann'd by sighs of death,
And blossom—bath'd in orphans' tears.
Sic transit—wealth's deceitful gloss, That mocks the heart, to hope alive, With promise form'd of dust and dross; Still offering—what it cannot give!
Sic transit—youth's aspiring sigh, That fondly dwells on days to come, Soon the vain wish that soars on high,
Is hush'd to silence in the tomb.
Sic transit—beauty's rosy smile, That buds when only life is new,
Cheers the dark path of care awhile, Then fades before th' admiring view!
Sic transit—love's enchanting kiss—Its pleasing pain—its rapturous thrill—Soon dies the short-lived taste of bliss; The cheek is pale—the heart is still!
Sic transit—pleasure's rainbow hour;
Not long its varied colors last—
The clouds collect their scatter'd power, And veil its beauties in the blast!
Sic transit, too—the poet's fire—Where autumn's yellow branches wave, His song forgot—the silent lyre —Rests on the child of fancy's grave!
Sic transit—grief's slow wasting form—
The murmur rung from want and pain;
For on their turf, that wards the storm, It pours its cruel force in vain!
Sic transit—all that earth can boast To own, create, confer, procure; All the warm heart can value most,
—And all its weakness can endure!
And thus—when time shall bring the gloom Of nature's last and darkest night; —A hand unseen will on her tomb —Sic transit gloria mundi!—write!

PARISIAN ANECDOTE.

A French gentleman of fashion, a few days ago, laid a bet that he would assemble a crowd of above a hundred persons, in one of the Boulevards, in less than ten minutes, round a tree that he would point out. "A stranger immediately cried out, "done." The Parisian buck wrote upon the back of a letter:
"Passers by! I think you are all fools, —And I am the greatest fool among you."

This placard was stuck against the tree with four pins.—First of all came up an old fellow with his spectacles, next a governess, with two children, then an opera dancer, three invalid officers, five milliners, one lady in a merino pelisse, two in casimere shawls, three with their witzhouars wrapped around them—two Englishmen on horseback, and a country gentleman in a hackney coach—a milliner in her gig, a marchioness in an open carriage, a doctor in his sulky; Coffee House waiters, money changers, and livery stable keepers: two savoyards, two water carriers, a seller of spectacles, a carrier of letters belonging to the post office, &c. At length the crowd became so great that there was no crossing the Boulevard.—The paper was placed rather low, so that one stooped in order to read below his neighbor's shoulders.

One thought it was a beggar—others that it was a woman—in a fit—a third that it was some poor dog who had his tail or ears cut—a fourth that a monkey had made its escape from a Savoyard—Every body's imagination was at work.—None guessed right—and instead of 100 dupes there were one thousand.—The punch and ice that composed the bet, were now about to be distributed at the expense of the strangers—when an old woman in a fit of ill humour, snatched down the paper and the crowd dispersed.

While man is free, he will be liable to variations: but that which at first view seems evil, is rendered subservient to a greater good.

ALEXANDRIA: SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1817.

The Boston Intelligencer of 15th inst. states that J. F. MASON, esq. has been appointed the consul general of his royal highness the grand duke of Tuscany for the New England states, to reside in Boston, and has received the necessary papers from the American government to authorize him to act in that capacity.
[N. Y. Com. Advertiser.]

Baltimore, Nov. 18.
Extract of a letter to the editor of the Federal Gazette, dated Annapolis, Nov. 15, 1817.

"We passed a very pleasant day here yesterday, and our city was quite enlivened by the interchange of civilities between commodore Stewart, the honorable minister Rush, and his excellency governor Ridgely, who arrived here on Wednesday evening.

"The previous visits having been made agreeably to etiquette, at eleven o'clock yesterday, the governor, the minister, with his very amiable lady, accompanied by a number of ladies and gentlemen, left the wharf for the Franklin in the superb boats of that ship: the presence of our distinguished hero, commodore Decatur, added much lustre and gave great pleasure to the party. The day was unusually brilliant, and it is long since I have seen our venerable city so gay and thronged. On the magnificent dome of the state house was displayed the state flag, in honor of the occasion.

"The party were received on board the 74 with all the civilities which military etiquette and politeness prompted. Commodore Stewart and captain Ballard conducted their visitors through every part of the ship, and the extreme harmony of arrangement, the happy union of comforts for the crew, and the fitness for offensive operations which prevail on board the Franklin, must give the most heartfelt exultation and delight to every American breast, and received the just and animated encomiums of the distinguished guests.

"The company were refreshed in her superb cabin, where it was pleasing to see the union of elegance and comforts for the accommodation of the minister, Mrs. Rush, and her little family. On returning, the boat in which were the governor and minister fell astern and lay on her oars whilst a national salute was given his excellency—fired in a masterly manner. The day closed with a select dinner at the government house, served up in the usual excellent style, given to the minister, commodore Decatur and Stewart, the officers of the Franklin, some strangers, and a few citizens. Among the visitors we were gratified to see captain Thompson, who commanded the Louisiana at the defence of New Orleans. That gallant officer is a passenger in the Franklin to recover his health, injured by his exposure on the Mississippi.

"The promptness with which governor Ridgely paid the respects of the state to the minister Rush and our national ship, and the great harmony which prevailed throughout the day, were sure and pleasing omens of the downfall of that detestable party spirit which has been for years the severance of our best men.

"It is confidently said here that Mr. Rush has received his late despatches by his private secretary, Mr. Taylor, and that the ship only waits to receive his stores on board, and, of course, you may expect to hear of her sailing with the first fair wind after to-morrow."

Washington, Nov. 20.

We hear, from Annapolis, that the Franklin, the new 74, would depart from thence either yesterday afternoon or on this day, taking out Mr. Rush and his suite on his embassy to England. This ship, like our ship Washington, (which she is destined to join in the Mediterranean) has attracted numberless visitors to view her exterior as well as interior arrangements, regulations, and superior accommodations for her passengers, officers, and crew. She will likely be viewed with much attention even in Plymouth or Portsmouth; and it is not a little creditable to our officers and naval tactics that Mons. Perron, a lieutenant de Vaisseau, (which gives him rank as a captain of a frigate in the French service) is regulated as a gun-room passenger in the Franklin, merely to become better informed as to the improved machinery, order, dispositions and celerity, practiced in the American ships of war. Lieutenant Perron was readily admitted to this ship through the solicitations of the Marquis De La Fayette to the president.

The account of a revolution in Algiers is confirmed by the arrival at Boston on Sunday morning of the brig Orleans, captain Jones, in 40 days from Gibraltar.—A Gibraltar paper, brought by the Orleans, announces the event in the following manner:

Gibraltar, October 4.
[From Oran, by letters dated 14th and 26th September.]

"Death of the Dey of Algiers.—On the 13th of September a number of Janissaries assembled round the palace of the Dey, called upon him to descend, as if it was their intention to put him to death, his reign having been a series of disasters both by sea and land.

"The Dey, being obliged to comply, was taken by the soldiers to the house of the Kishna-Aga, where he was strangled, and a man named Ali Cogia, a retired merchant, was declared his successor.—The ministers of the late Dey have been exiled to different cities of the regency.

Captain Jones confirms, also, the account of the arrival of the American squadron at Gibraltar. They arrived on the 3d October, and were lying at quarantine when the Orleans sailed.

Gibraltar, Sept. 27.
We are sorry to learn that intelligence has been received of the arrival at Fez, about the 1st, of a caravan, with merchandise, direct from Algiers.

The number of deaths in Algiers, according to official intelligence, have amounted to 150 a day; but the disease has subsided to about 40 deaths daily.

October 4.
At Oran, and on the frontiers of the kingdom of Morocco, not a small precaution is taken against the plague; notwithstanding this, the disease has not yet shown itself to the westward of Algiers.

Caravans pass daily from Algiers to different towns in Morocco.

The Moors at Tlemzen, and other cities of this province, communicate with the kingdom of Morocco as formerly.

At Bona the disease is said to have subsided: at Constantia the daily number of deaths amounts to about 100.

From the National Advocate.

It will be recollected that we lately sent the Congress frigate to Hayti, with a commissioner on board, charged with arranging our affairs with his enemy's majesty. The result of that mission is not generally known, but was supposed to have terminated unfavorably, owing to a want of formality or diplomatic etiquette; for these able warriors, dressed in "brief authority," stand up for every point with as much formality as their legitimate brethren who form the redoubtable European alliance; and when we look at position, character, talents and decision, their claims are much better founded for sovereignty than many of those who have subscribed to the "holy league." Mr. Henry the 1st of Hayti has an equal right to exclaim, with Lear, "I am every inch a King." The following account of the arrival of the Congress, as well as despatches from the count of Limonde, secretary of state for foreign affairs, has been furnished us by a friend. We, however, cannot discover any thing serious or improper in the view which they take: if we open a negotiation with them it must be on a footing such as we would establish with any other nation.

Official note from the Hayti Gazette.
In order to remove all doubts which the arrival of the American frigate Congress in the port of the capital, having

Mr. Tyler on board, may have excited, and also to remove all motives of calumny from the enemies of Hayti, we are authorized to publish the following documents:

"A government, strong of itself as well as by its principles of wisdom and justice, does not fear to make the truth known. There will be seen in these documents the desire which our government has exhibited to establish relations of commerce and friendship with the government of the United States, whenever they should be founded on the political relations, usages and reciprocity which ought to exist between governments. It will be seen, that the cause why the lucrative commerce which has for more than 25 years existed between the two nations has not been more extensive, is owing solely to the government of the United States.

KINGDOM OF HAYTI.

At the palace of La Grande Riviere, August 1, 1817; 14th year of Independence.

The Secretary of State, Minister of Foreign Affairs of HAYTI, &c. to Mr. the Baron de Dupuy, Secretary and Interpreter to the King, &c.

Mr. LA BARON—I have received your letter of yesterday, which announces the arrival of the American frigate Congress, in the port of the capital, with Mr. Tyler, who presents himself as Commercial Agent of the United States of America.

On learning the arrival of Mr. Tyler, I waited to receive despatches from his government, and letters which should accredit him at the court of Hayti; but I have been strangely surprised, from the report which you have made to me, that he was the bearer only of a simple certificate, couched in unusual and inadmissible terms—and further: containing the words "Cape Francois," & "of the Island of St. Domingo,"—expressions which are improper, and offensive to the government of his majesty.

Notwithstanding the desire which his majesty has of seeing relations of commerce and amity established between the two governments, I am under the necessity of charging you to notify Mr. Tyler that he cannot be received and considered as commercial agent, he not being furnished with authentic credentials in good and due form, sufficiently to accredit him with the Haytian Government.

As Mr. Tyler is, without doubt, ignorant of the usages established in this kingdom for the diplomatic communications between governments, you will make them known to him, and will send him a copy of the king's declaration, dated 20th November, 1816.

I regret that his majesty, being at this moment on a tour, cannot give an audience to Mr. Tyler and the Captain of the frigate Congress, as they desire.

I have the honor to salute, &c.
COUNT DE LIMONADE.

FROM THE RICHMOND ENQUIRER.

Soon after this period, Mr. Henry, having devoted six weeks to the study of the law, applied for and obtained a license to practice it. For three years he lingered in obscurity, until at length a controversy to which the legislature and people were parties on the one side, and the clergy on the other, called forth his gigantic talents. An act had passed in 1758, authorizing persons indebted for tobacco to commute his debt for money at the rate of 16s 8d per hundred. This act deeply affected the interests of the clergy, whose stipends were payable in tobacco, and they resisted it on two grounds; first because the act of 1758, not having received the royal assent, had not the force of a law; and secondly because the king in council had declared that act null and void. In a suit instituted by the reverend James Maury, vs. the collector of Hanover and his securities, the question of law came to be argued on a demurrer assigning as causes of demurrer these reasons, and was determined in favor of the plaintiff. The case then came before a jury on a writ of enquiry of damages, and it was on this question that Mr. Henry made his debut before the public. Our author's account of the whole matter is extremely interesting, but we confine ourselves to the following extract detailing what took place in court.

"Soon after the opening of the court, the cause was called. It stood on a writ of inquiry of damages, no plea having been entered by the defendants since the judgment on the demurrer. The array before Mr. Henry's eyes was now most fearful. On the bench sat more than twenty clergymen, the most learned men in the colony, and the most capable, as well as the severest critics before whom it was possible for him to have made his debut. The court house was crowded with an overwhelming multitude, and surrounded with an immense and anxious throng, who not finding room to enter, were endeavoring to listen without, in the deepest attention. But there was something still more awfully disconcerting than all this; for the chair of the presiding magistrate, no other person, than his own father. Mr. Lyons opened the cause very briefly: in the way of argument he did nothing more than explain to the jury, that the decision upon the demurrer had put the act of 1758 entirely out of the way, and left the law of 1748 as the only standard of their damages; he then concluded with a highly wrought eulogium on the benevolence of the clergy. And now, came on the first trial of Patrick Henry's strength. No one had ever heard him speak, and curiosity was on tip-toe. He rose very awkwardly, and stammered much in his exordium. The people hung their heads at so unpromising a commencement; the clergy were observed to exchange sly looks with each other; and his father is described as having almost sunk with confusion, from his seat. But these feelings were of short duration, & soon gave place to others, of a very different character. For, now, were those wonderful faculties which he possessed, for the first time developed; and now, was first, witnessed that mysterious and almost supernatural transformation of appearance, which the fire of his own eloquence never failed to work in him. For as his mind rolled along, and began to glow from its own action, all the extraneous of the clown, seemed to shed themselves spontaneously. His attitude, by degrees, became erect and lofty. The spirit of his genius awakened all his features. His countenance shone with a nobleness and grandeur which it had never before exhibited. There was a lightning in his eyes which seemed to rivet the spectator. His action became graceful, bold and commanding; and in the tones of his voice, but more especially in his emphasis, there was a peculiar charm, a magic, of which any one who ever heard him, will speak as soon as he is named, but of which no one can give an adequate description. They can only say that it struck upon the ear and upon the heart, in a manner which language cannot tell. Add to all these, his wondrous-working fancy and the peculiar phraseology in which he clothed its images; for he painted to the heart with a force that almost petrified it. In the language of those who heard him on this occasion, "he made their blood run cold, and their hair to rise on end."

"It will not be difficult for any one, who ever heard this most extraordinary man, to believe the whole account of the transaction which is given by his surviving hearers; and from their account, the court house of Hanover county, must have exhibited on this occasion, a scene as picturesque as has been ever witnessed in real life. They say, that the people, whose countenances had fallen as he arose had heard but a very few sentences before they began to look up; then to look at each other with surprise, as if doubting the evidence of their own senses; then, attracted by some strong feature, struck by some majestic attitude, fascinated by the spell of his eye, the charm of his emphasis, and the varied and commanding expression of his countenance, they could look away no more. In less than twenty minutes, they might be seen in every part of the house, on every bench, in every window, stooping forward from their stands, in deathlike silence; their features fixed in amazement and awe; all their senses listening and rivetted upon the speaker, as if to catch the last strain of some heavenly visitant.

The mockery of the clergy was soon turned into alarm; their triumph into confusion and despair; and at one burst of his rapid and overwhelming invective, they fled from their bench in precipitation and terror. As for the father, such was his surprise, such his amazement, such his rapture, that, forgetting where he was, and the character which he was filling, tears of ecstasy streamed down his cheeks, without the power or inclination to repress them.

"The jury seem to have been so completely bewildered, that they lost sight not only of the act of 1748, but that of 1758 also; for thoughtless even of the admitted right of the plaintiff, they had scarcely left the bar, when they returned with a verdict of one penny damages. A motion was made for a new trial; but the court too, had now lost the equipoise of their judgment, and overruled the motion by an unanimous vote. The verdict and judgment overruling the motion, were followed by redoubled acclamation, from within and without the house. The people, who had with difficulty kept their hands off their champion, from the moment of closing his harangue, no sooner saw the fate of the cause finally sealed, than they seized him at the bar, and in spite of his own exertions, and the continued cry of "order" from the sheriffs and the court, they bore him out of the court house, and raising him on their shoulders, carried him about the yard, in a kind of electioneering triumph."

In the year 1764, Mr. Henry removed to the county of Louisa, and in the fall of that year he had an opportunity of exhibiting himself before the house of burgesses in Williamsburg in a contested election.

"Williamsburg, then the seat of government, was the focus of fashion and high life. The residence of the governor, (the immediate representative of the sovereign), the royal state in which he lived, the polite and brilliant circle which he always had about him, diffused their influence through the city and the circumjacent country, and filled Williamsburg with a degree of emulation, taste, and elegance, of which we can form no conception by the appearances of the present day. During the session of the house of burgesses, too, these stately modes of life assumed their richest forms; the town, was filled with a concourse of visitors, as well as citizens, attired in their gayest colors—the streets, exhibited a continual scene of animated and glittering vanity; the houses, of costly profusion.

"Such was the scene in which Mr. Henry was now called upon, for the first time to make his appearance.—He made no preparation for it, but went down just in the kind of garb which he had been accustomed to exhibit all his life, and is said to have worn on this occasion particularly, a suit which had suffered very considerably in the service. The contrast which he exhibited with the general elegance of the place was so striking, as to call upon him the eyes of all the curious and the mischievous;—and as he moved awkwardly about, in his coarse and thread-bare dress, with the countenance of abstraction and total unconcern as to what was passing around him, (interesting as it seemed to every one else,) he was stared at by some as a prodigy; and regarded by others as an unfortunate being, whose senses were disordered. When he went to attend the committee of privileges and elections, the matter was still worse. "The proud airs of aristocracy," says Judge Tyler, detailing this incident of Mr. Henry's life, "added to the dignified forms of that truly august body, were enough to have deterred any man possessing less firmness and independence of spirit than Mr. Henry. He was ushered with great state and ceremony into the room of the committee, whose chairman was Col. Bland. Mr. Henry was dressed in very coarse apparel—no one knew any thing of him, and scarcely was he treated with due respect by any one except the chairman, who could not do so much violence to his feelings and principles, as to depart on any occasion from the delicacy of the gentleman. But the general contempt was soon turned into general admiration—for Mr. Henry, distinguished himself by a copious and brilliant display on the great subject of the rights of suffrage, superior to any thing that had been heard before within those walls. Such a burst of eloquence from a man so very plain and ordinary in his appearance, struck the committee with amazement; so that a deep and perfect silence took place during the speech—and not a word but from his lips, was to be heard in the room."

But a new and splendid theatre was now preparing for this great man, who, as has been happily said, "certainly gave the first impulse to the ball of the revolution." In March 1764, the British Parliament had passed resolutions preparatory to the levying of the revenues on the colonies by a stamp tax, and in May 1765, Mr. Henry was elected a member of the house of Burgesses from the county of Louisa, with express reference to an opposition to their measures. After waiting in vain for some one to take the lead, in rearing the standard of colonial liberty, until within three days of the expected close of the Session, Mr. Henry rose and introduced his celebrated Resolutions on the Stamp Act.

"I will not," says Mr. Wirt, withhold from the reader a note of his transaction from the pen of Mr. Henry himself. It is a curiosity and highly worthy of preservation. After his death, there was found among his papers one sealed, and thus endorsed: "Inclosed are the resolutions of the Virginia Assembly in 1765 concerning the stamp act. Let my exordium open this paper." Within was found the following copy of the resolutions, in Mr. Henry's hand writing.

"Resolved, That the first adventures and settlers of this, his Majesty's colony and dominion, brought with them, and transmitted to their posterity, and all other his majesty's subjects, since inhabiting in this, his majesty's said colony, all the privileges, franchises, and immunities, that have at any time been held, enjoyed, and possessed, by the people of Great Britain.

"Resolved, That by two royal charters granted by King James the first, the colonists, aforesaid, are declared entitled to all the privileges, liberties, and immunities, of denizens and natural born subjects, to all intents and purposes, as if they had been abiding and born within the realm of England.

"Resolved, That the taxation of the people by themselves, or by persons chosen by themselves to represent them, who can only know what taxes the people are able to bear, and are equally affected by such taxes themselves, is the distinguishing characteristic of British freedom, and without which the ancient constitution cannot subsist.

"Resolved, That his majesty's people of this most ancient colony

His attitude, by degrees, became et and lofty. The spirit of his genius kened all his features. His countene shone with a nobleness and granor which it had never before exhibited. ere was a lightning in his eyes which med to rive the spectator. His action me graceful, bold and commanding; in the tones of his voice, but more ecially in his emphasis, there was a ular charm, a magic, of which any who ever heard him, will speak as as he is named, but of which no can give an adequate description. ey can only say that it struck upon ear and upon the heart, in a manner h language cannot tell. Add to all e, his wonder-working fancy and the ular phraseology in which he clothed images; for he painted to the heart a force that almost petrified it. In language of those who heard him on occasion, "he made their blood run d, and their hair to rise on end." It will not be difficult for any one ever heard this most extraordinary e, to believe the whole account of the action which is given by his surviv-hearers; and from their account, the rt house of Hanover county, must e exhibited on this occasion, a scene icturesque as has been ever witnessed al life. They say, that the people, se countenances had fallen as he arose heard but a very few sentences bethey began to look up; then to look ach other with surprise, as if doubt-the evidence of their own senses; n, attracted by some strong gesture, ok by some majestic attitude, fascied by the spell of his eye, the charm is emphasis, and the varied and comnding expression of his countenance, y could look away no more. In less twenty minutes, they might be seen every part of the house, on every bench, very window, stooping forward from r stands, in deathlike silence; their ures fixed in amazement and awe; their senses listening and riveted up-the speaker, as if to catch the last in of some heavenly visitant. The very of the clergy was soon turned alarm; their triumph into confusion despair; and at one burst of his ra-and overwhelming invective, they from their bench in precipitation and or. As for the father, such was his se, such his amazement, such his are, that, forgetting where he was, the character which he was filling, of ecstasy streamed down his eks, without the power or inclination press them.

The jury seem to have been so comely bewildered, that they lost sight only of the act of 1748, but that of also; for thoughtless even of the ad-ed right of the plaintiff, they had-ely left the bar, when they returned a verdict of one penny damages. otion was made for a new trial; but court too, had now lost the equipoise their judgment, and overruled the moby an unanimous vote. The verdict judgment overruling the motion, were ved by redoubled acclamation, from in and without the house. The peowho had with difficulty kept their off their champion, from the mot-of closing his harangue, no sooner the fate of the cause finally sealed, they seized him at the bar, and inof his own exertions, and the con-ed cry of "order" from the sheriffs the court, they bore him out of the t house, and raising him on their lders, carried him about the yard, kind of electing triumph.

In the year 1764, Mr. Henry removed county of Louisa, and in the fall at year he had an opportunity of ex-ing himself before the house of bures in Williamsburg in a contested ion.

Williamsburg, then the seat of go-ment, was the focus of fashion and life. The residence of this governor, immediate representative of the so-ign, the royal state in which he liv-the polite and brilliant circle which ways had about him, diffused their ence through the city and the cir-cent country, and filled Williams-with a degree of emulation, taste, elegance, of which we can form no eption by the appearances of the ent day. During the session of the e of burgesses, too, these stately s of life assumed their richest forms; own, was filled with a concourse of urs, as well as citizens, attired in gayer colors—the streets, exhibit-of a continual scene of animated and guttering tumult; the houses, of costly profusion.

Such was the scene in which Mr.
Henry was now called upon, for the first time to make his appearance.— He made no preparation for it, but went down just in the kind of garb which he had been accustomed to exhibit all his life, and is said to have worn on this occasion particularly, a suit which had suffered very considerably in the service. The contrast which he exhibited with the general elegance of the place was so striking, as to call upon him the eyes of all the curious and the mischievous:—and as he moved awkwardly about, in his coarse and thread-bare dress, with the countenance of abstraction and total unconcern as to what was passing around him, (interesting as it seemed to every one else,) he was stared at by some as a prodigy; and regarded by others as an unfortunate being, whose senses were disordered. When he went to attend the committee of privileges and elections, the matter was still worse. "The proud airs of aristocracy," says Judge Tyler, detailing this incident of Mr. Henry's life, "added to the dignified forms of that truly august body, were enough to have deterred any man possessing less firmness and independence of spirit than Mr. Henry. He was ushered with great state and ceremony into the room of the committee, whose chairman was Col. Bland.
Mr. Henry was dressed in very coarse apparel—no one knew any thing of him, and scarcely was he treated with decent respect by any one except the chairman, who could not do so much violence to his feelings and principles, as to depart on any occasion from the delicacy of the gentleman. But the general contempt was as soon turned into general admiration—for Mr. Henry, distinguished himself by a copious and brilliant display on the great subject of the rights of suffrage, superior to any thing that had been heard before within these walls. Such a burst of eloquence from a man so very plain and ordinary in his appearance, struck the committee with amazement; so that a deep and perfect silence took place during the speech—and not a sound but from his lips, was to be heard in the room."

But a new and splendid theatre was now preparing for this great man, who, as has been happily said, certainly gave the first impulse to the hall of the revolution. In March 1774, the British Parliament had passed resolutions preparatory to the levying of the revenues on the colonies by a stamp tax, and in May 1765, Mr. Henry was elected a member of the house of Burgesses from the county of Louisa, with express reference to an opposition to their measures. After waiting in vain for some one to take the lead, in rearing the standard of colonial liberty, until within three days of the expected close of the Session, Mr. Henry rose and introduced his celebrated Resolutions on the Stamp Act.

"I will not," says Mr. Wirt, withdraw from the reader a note of this transaction from the pen of Mr.
Henry himself. It is a curiosity and highly worthy of preservation. After his death, there was found among his papers one sealed, and thus endorsed: "Inclosed are the resolutions of the Virginia Assembly in 1765 concerning the stamp act. Let my excellencies open this paper." Within was found the following copy of the resolutions, in Mr. Henry's hand writing.

Resolved, That the first adventures and settlers of this, his Majesty's colony and dominion, brought with them, and transmitted to their posterity, and all other his majesty's subjects, since inhabiting in this, his Majesty's said colony, all the privileges, franchises, and immunities, that have at any time been held, enjoyed, and possessed, by the people of Great Britain.

Resolved, That by two royal charters granted by King James the first, the colonists, aforesaid, are declared entitled to all the privileges, liberties, and immunities, of denizens and natural born subjects, to all intents and purposes, as if they had been abiding born within the realm of England.

Resolved, That the taxation of the people by themselves, or by persons chosen by themselves to represent them, who can only know what the people are able to bear, and the easiest mode of raising them, and are equally affected by such taxes themselves, is the distinguishing characteristic of British freedom, and that which the ancient constitution never lost.

Resolved, That his majesty's people of this most ancient colony, have uninterruptedly enjoyed the right of being thus governed by their own assembly in the article of their taxes and internal policy, and that the same hath never been forfeited, or any other way given up, but hath been constantly recognized by the King and people of Great Britain.

Resolved, therefore, That the general assembly of this colony have the sole right and power to lay taxes and impositions upon this colony; and that every attempt to vest such power in any other person or persons whatsoever, other than the general assembly aforesaid, has a manifest tendency to destroy British as well as American freedom."

"On the back of the paper containing those resolutions, is the following endorsement, which is also in the hand writing of Mr. Henry himself.
"The within resolutions passed the house of burgesses in May, 1765.— They formed the first opposition to the stamp act, and the scheme of taxing America by the British Parliament. All the colonies, either thro' fear, or want of opportunity to form an opposition, or from influence of some kind or other, had remained silent. I had been for the first time elected a burgess, a few days before, was young, inexperienced, unacquainted with the forms of the house, and the members that composed it. Finding the men of weight averse to opposition, and the commencement of the tax at hand, and that no person was likely to step forth, I determined to venture, and alone, unadvised and unassisted, on a blank leaf of an old law book, wrote the within. Upon offering them to the house, violent debates ensued. Many threats were uttered, and much abuse cast on me, by the party for submission. After a long and warm contest, the resolutions passed by a very small majority, perhaps of one or two only.
The alarm spread through America with astonishing quickness, and the ministerial party were overwhelmed.
The great point of resistance to British taxation was universally established in the colonies. This brought on the war, which finally separated the two countries, and gave independence to ours. Whether this will prove a blessing or a curse, will depend upon the use our people make of the blessings which a gracious God hath bestowed on us. If they are wise, they will be great and happy.— If they are of a contrary character, they will be miserable. Righteousness alone can exalt them as a nation.
Reader! whoever thou art, remember this; and in thy sphere, practice virtue thyself, and encourage it in others.—P. HENRY."

Ned is well made, high forehead and large flat nose: had on when he went away a gray coat and pantaloons; but as he was well provided with clothing of various kinds, it is probable he may have changed his dress. ## James Kennedy & Son,

BOOKSELLERS,

KING-STREET, ALEXANDRIA,

RESPECTFULLY inform the public that they have just received from

Lee's Medicine Store,

No. 46, Maiden lane, New-York, a fresh supply of the following valuable MEDICINES:

Hamilton's Worm-destroying Lozenges,

Which have within sixteen years past cured an immense number of persons of both sexes of every age and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from WORMS, and from obstructions or foulness in the stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles so commonly complained of as operating with violence; on the contrary a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and constitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent & is so mild in its operation that it cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady or the tenderest infant of a week old should no worms exist in the body; but will without pain or griping cleanse the stomach and bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms and many fatal disorders. The lozenges are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross humours and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.

Description of Worms, and the symptoms by which they are known.

Worms which infest the human body are chiefly of four kinds viz.—The Tere or large round worm; the Ascarides or small maw-worm; the Cucurbitine or short flat white worm; and lastly, the Tenia or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat; convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food and sometimes voracious; purging with slimy and fetid stools; vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; pains in the head and thighs and bowiness of spirits; slow fever with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent "the vomiting and purging of children"—a dreadful disorder, which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our citizens. It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and has restored to health and strength a great number when in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.

The Restorative Powder for the Teeth and Gums.

For the prevention and cure of

BILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS

is recommended

Hahn's ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pomptous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance: they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

Hamilton's Elixir,

A sovereign remedy for colds, obstinate coughs, asthma, sore throats, catarrhs, and approaching consumptions. To persons who have children afflicted with the HOOPING COUGH, this discovery is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorders to which children are liable. The Elixir is perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small that no difficulty arises in taking it.

Hamilton's Grand Restorative,

Is recommended as an invaluable medicine for the speedy relief and permanent cure of Nervous Disorders Violent cramps in Consumptions the stomach and Lowness of spirits back Loss of appetite Indigestion Impurity of blood Melancholy Hysterical affection Gout in the stomach Inward weaknesses Pains in the limbs and debility Relaxations, etc.

Hamilton's Essence and Extract of Mustard.

A safe and effectual remedy for acute and chronic rheumatism, gout, rheumatic gout, palsy, lumbago, numbness, white swellings, chilblains, sprains, bruises, pain in the face and neck, etc. etc.

Lee's Ointment for the Itch.

Warranted an infallible remedy at once application, may be used with perfect safety by pregnant women, or on infants a week old, not containing a particle of mercury or any dangerous ingredient whatever, and not accompanied with that tormenting smart which attends the application of other remedies.

Hahn's true & genuine German Corn Plaster.

An infallible remedy for corns, speedily removing their root and branch, without giving any pain.

The Genuine Persian Lotion.

So celebrated among the fashionable throughout Europe, is an invaluable cosmetic, perfectly innocent and safe, free from corrosive and repellent minerals, the basis of other lotions, and of unparalleled efficacy in removing blemishes of the face and skin, freckles, pimples, inflammatory redness, scurfs, tetter, ring-worms, sunburns, prickly heat, &c.

Hahn's genuine Eye Water,

A sovereign remedy for all diseases of the eyes, whether the effect of natural weakness or of accident.

Tooth Ache Drops.

The only remedy yet discovered which gives immediate and lasting relief in the most severe instances.

Lee's Infallible Ague and Fever Drops

For the cure of agues, remittent and intermittent fevers.

At the place of sale pamphlets may be had gratis, describing cures performed by the above medicines; the number, importance and respectability of which, fully justify every article of this advertisement.
